

Make a Splash Creatively
Judy Czarnecki, Chippewa River District Library

There are tons of crafting resources out there in both print and electronic forms. Here are some we have found ourselves turning to time after time:

www.makingfriends.com

Mostly elementary aged crafts; searchable by theme, craft material, etc.

www.enchantedlearning.com

Mostly elementary, with some preschool; lots of educational material as well.

www.dltk-kids.com

Mostly preschool and mostly paper crafts; can search by theme or craft material.

www.familyfun.com

Mostly elementary aged crafts.

Family Fun Crafts. Deanna F. Cook (Ed.). NY: Disney Editions, 1997.

www.craftster.com

Teen and adult craft site—"edgier" crafts—from their "about" page: Craftster.org was started in August 2003 as a repository for hip, off-beat, crafty diy (do it yourself) projects. (Judy's 25-year-old daughter loves this site. ☺)

Science experiments (some that can be considered crafty).

www.artistshelpingchildren.org

Compilation of links, searchable by material, theme, etc.

Mostly crafts that are related to preschool storytime; booklists!

The PowerPoint for this presentation as well as some other craft workshops is at www.crdl.org

Click on the "About CRDL" tab, in the right pane, scroll down to the bottom to "Teacher Resources" and you will find links to craft workshop info.
